Coronavirus (COVID-19)

Don't be alarmed!

Dear reader, we cannot be indifferent to the Coronavirus virus (COVID-19) that is currently spreading throughout the planet.

We know that it is not what you expect to read in Inciter Magazine, but in good faith we want to give you some convenient indications to be able to carry out this universal circumstance, but the most important thing that you do not panic is not so serious.

The Coronavirus really is a bacterium that lives among us many decades ago. It comes from snakes and bats, although it is also presumed of other reptiles, passing humans for the consumption of poorly prepared meat of snake and bats. Inciter, does not want you to be stressed, to panic or to be sad, we have really consulted several trained doctors, and they tell us the following: Easy to get contaminated, the probability of getting contaminated every day is higher, there is no doubt about this.

Easy to cure, in fact with a simple treatment, based on antibiotics, you will heal almost as quickly as infection. The difference between those who heal and those who die is found in the following points (IMPORTANT THAT YOU HAVE THEM IN ACCOUNT):

The speed at which the virus is detected: How fast the virus detects is what saves your life. That is why it is very important that any symptoms such as cough, fever, discomfort or pain go to the doctor.

The quality of your defense system: If you consider your defenses to be low, please do your best to raise them. You can start by lowering the consumption of alcohol and drugs, raising the consumption of vitamins, citrus and dairy, so that your body can have strength to the defender of the virus.

The chances of saving yourself from the virus are high, so don't panic, and now I hope you enjoy the content of our magazine.

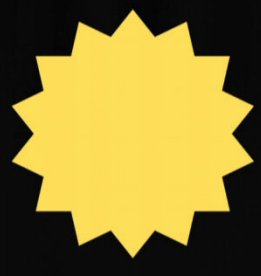

Do you want to be rich? It is time to do it in the stock market.

Unfortunately where there are big losers, there are also big winners.

This is the subject of this post, where we consult investment experts. Because of the commercial war, the Coronavirus (COVID-19), and some natural effects of the planet, we see that the markets fall with an aggressive force never seen before. Is it really too bad ... or too good?

It is really very good, you should know that these effects of economic downturn that companies are living will help you obtain great profits in a very short time.

Currently, we see the fall of up to 60% as normal in the current scenario, and if you buy shares that cheap you will win when it stabilizes in a short time.

An example follows: A company that normally shares $ 2 today is worth $ 0.9.

Let's say you invest $ 1000 to today's price and buy 1111 shares. When these shares return to your normal price your $ 1000, they became $ 2222.

Why is this convenient?

Companies are really lowering their market valuation by external factors, so when the world solves its external factors, the original value of the company will return, leaving profits.

The risks have been reduced. How can you do it?

Look at the indexes of the stock exchange in your country, select a company, and look at the price history of the shares that have gone down, and compare how much they have gone down.

Try to make these investments in the strongest possible companies.

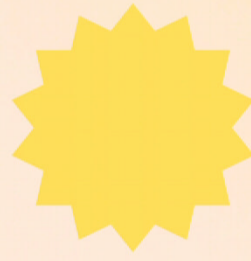

If you require special advice, you can go to the contact form on incitermagazine.com, there we will go to solve your questions, and help you.

The small and very cheap electric cars

The simplicity of manufacturing cars is at its best. Nowadays, anyone in a simple factory can make cars, without any major risk of being bad, since the quality of batteries and circuits is still very generic.

However, they are far from each other for their safety, support, and design.

Then I will show you a series of cars in three price scales, so you can get an idea for your new electric toy.

The cheapest (white label):

Chinese manufacturers have started a wave of new factories for emerging markets. Some models with lithium batteries, steel and aluminum structures, which carry up to 2 passengers can be found between $1000 and $5000.

The offer of these cars, with a funny appearance and a maximum speed of 40km/ h, is given to a market that wants to try cheap and easy-to-charge electric vehicles, with few spare parts and simple transport function.

The one that follows for $16,000:

Great Wall, shows his model Ora. This brand with at least 30 years in the electric car market, shows us this compact for 5 passengers and a speed of up to 140km/ h. Their spare parts are cheap, easy to change and so simple that they should last for years before they know they have a defect.

The luxury ones:

We all know Tesla, we applaud his good management, but the turn for today is for the masters of design, we selected Nio, a Chinese who began manufacturing cars with futuristic designs from 2014, and that has had exceptional results in matters of performance, security and luxury. Nio is starting at $52,000 with his ES6 model.

So cheer up, it's time to play with the electric ones.

Sexting, I don't think it's infidelity.

Hello, I live in Miami, I'm Latina, with 28 years old. I'm currently married to a man somewhat older than me, always busy, so sex is little, or nothing.

I opened Tinder has a profile, half false and half true.

I really did it in a moment of excitement, since I had been without sex for 2 months, when I love sex, and if it were for me every day.

In Tinder, I met many men, really the plan is sex, however I am not sure of being unfaithful to my husband, but one day I thought, is sexting infidelity?

I mean, if I look at the penis in a photo and I don't touch it, is this infidelity?

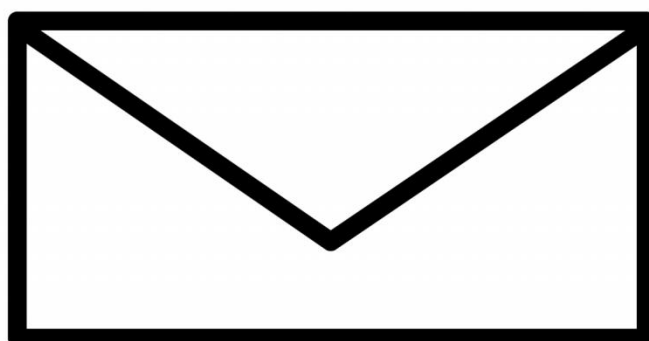

I think not! I have started to play, with youngsters, married men, with everyone who has a good conversation.

Sometimes I record videos when wake up, I take a picture when I masturbate in the shower, sometimes I drive and on the street under my panties to take a picture.

I really love this erotic feeling of knowing that someone gets excited with me.

I have told a friend, who considers it an infidelity, and that is why I have written this email to Inciter, to defend the idea that it is not an infidelity, it is an experience like when you go to the cinema to see your favorite actor, but now You see another human without clothes.

Enjoy sexting, this is not infidelity ... I love my husband.
